- you are a large global business with talent teams around the world and a large employee base
- you have fast-paced requirements which internal teams don't always have capacity to deliver, for which you need high quality contractors quickly
- your global talent teams currently work in silos and you want to break down traditional processes to hiring and access an agile marketplace with low administrative involvement
- enter eighteen o four - we enable you to access agile individuals and teams experienced in working internationally and remotely at a high level

deconstruction

- you have global teams spread across locations and timezones with varying delivery methods and alignment
- inefficiencies develop with scale and perpetuate when not examined - you need to work seamlessly to grow, resource, develop and accelerate processes
- traditional mindsets are hard to breakdown and consistent agility is challenging in a large business
- enter eighteen o four - we deconstruct your current operations, analyse inefficiencies, accelerate delivery and restructure your processes to enable continuous improvement, acceleration and understanding of internal talent capabilities

future of work

- you already have a stance on the future of work but feel there is more to be done and want to develop a proactive strategy
- you are losing knowledge retention, churning resources and struggling to create evolving talent practices and community
- you're struggling to ensure that your future of work insights are prioritised and implemented into your global communities
- enter eighteen o four - we provide a solution which offers inclusive opportunities for diverse talent, encourages a sustainable culture to attract a new generation and taps into world leading research that can be used in your future thinking
